After careful scrutiny, we found some discrepancies or inadvertent errors in some of the questions in the Question Booklets. We are compelled to discard such questions for the interest of the candidates as this would result in unjust examination score. We believe that the decision adopted to address this issue will provide justice to the candidates in every way. However, we regret the inconvenience caused, if any, to the candidates. As mentioned, we will provide equal weightage to both the HS/Equivalent examination marks and the marks in the Admission Test.

From the Question Booklet and the relevant Answer Keys which are provided, the candidates can have a clear idea of the specific questions on which they will be evaluated.

For subjects where there are erroneous questions, candidates will be evaluated on the basis of the correct questions only. The erroneous questions will not be taken into account while calculating their score in the admission test.

For instance, if there are 6 (six) erroneous questions among 50 (fifty) in Statistics, the candidates will be evaluated on the basis of 44 (forty-four) questions only. In this case, marks obtained by the candidates out of 88 (eighty-eight) ($44 \times 2=88$) will act as the parameter on the basis of which the marks they would have attained out of 100 (hundred) will be calculated.
